Alexandria Gazette

TUESDAY KVENING, APRIL 17.

The Agricultural Department, WOODLAWN, April 14, 1877.

To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette: Dear Sir-I was rejoiced when I read the item in your to-day's paper stating that our friend Chalkley Gillingham's name in connection with the Agricultural Department has been urged by several agricultural and pomological societies. I feel it due to the great interests involved in those two branches of industry that his name and merits should be more generally known and appreciated. I have known the gentleman nearly forty years, and have known that his whole career and experience during that time have been in connection with those pursuits. As an evidence of his high standing where he is best known, he has been President of the Woodlawn Farmers' Club ever since its organization. I think the same in the Potomac Fruit Growers' Club. In regard to knowledge and experience in the habits of the insects which so cruelly prey upon our industries he has few superiors. Such knowledge diffused throughcut the land at this time would be very valuable. I really hope, if any change is to be made in that department, he may fill the place. JOHN MASON. Very respectfully, etc.,
